FIVE SENDS REQUEST THAT

WE COULD NOT VISIT NORWICH

President Charles P. Wells of the Norwich Chapter of Commerce received a word Sunday from Superintendent Edward E. Ryan of the New London division of the New Haven road that it would be impossible for the literary arranged for Mr. H. V. Smith to be changed so that the train could pass through Norwich on its way from New Haven to Providence.

It was suggested to those in charge of the literary that the train be changed from the New Haven to Providence via Norwich and Plainfield. Evidently the change literary could not be changed.

BETTER THAN A MUSTARD PLASTER

That's what thousands of stomach sufferers are doing now. Instead of taking laxatives, or trying to patch up a poor digestion, they are attacking the real cause of the ailment—clogged liver and disordered bowels.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets arouse the liver in a soothing, healing way. When the liver and bowels are performing their natural functions, away goes indigestion and stomach troubles.

Have you a bad taste, coated tongue, poor appetite, a lazy, don't-care feeling, no ambition or energy, trouble with undigested foods? Take Olive Tablets the substitute for calomel.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets are a purely vegetable compound mixed with olive oil. You will know them by their olive color. They do the work without griping, cramps or pain.

Take one or two at bedtime for quick relief. Eat what you like. 15c and 30c.

$679.16 PROFIT IN TROLLEY OPERATING

Operation of the Shore Line Electric Railway under Receiver Robert W. Perkins, reached a period for the time from January 1, to September 30, this year in which a net gain of $679.16 was shown. This was after deducting taxes, but did not include payment of interest on the underlying bonds.

Small as this return is for the period of nine months, it is a distinct improvement over the same months of 1920, according to the semi-annual report of the receiver which has been filed at the office of Judge George E. Parsons, clerk of the clerk of the superior court.

August was the peak month in cash receipts for the Shore Line system, apparently showing the effect of summer travel. Cash receipts jumped from $32,859.88 in July to $53,454.61 in August. September cash receipts were approximately $1,600 less than August.

The property in the hands of the receiver is now shown by the general balance sheet which shows, on the asset side, the road and equipment carried at the figures set by the appraisers; the other items result from the operation and appraisal. The liabilities shown are only those resulting from operations and the funded debt, including accrued bond interest and taxes to the date of receivership.

The statements of assets and liabilities for the fourth six months period ending September 30, 1921, resulting from operations for twenty-four months, October 1, 1921 to September 30, 1921, is as follows:

The receiver reports the sale of the Cogswell street property, which was appraised at $8,000, but sold at $12,000 less a $300 commission.

He also reports that under the general order to dismantle and sell the lines west of Flanders Corner, this work is proceeding and the rails are being taken up and delivered on cars about as fast as taken from the road bed. There will be about 450 tons of the 70 pound rail and from 1,200 to 1,300 tons of the 80 pound rail that will pass inspection as suitable for reuse. This rail is paid for as removed.

SAYS CHINA WILL RISE

TO PLACE AMONG NATIONS

"Although the outlook is at present dark, China will emerge from her unsettled condition and take her place among the nations of the world if her young men who are growing up with modern ideas of patriotism will continue their work," said Dickinson H. Leavens, in an address before the monthly meeting of the Brotherhood of the United Congregational church on Monday evening. Mr. Leavens' address was on "The Changes in China Since the Revolution in 1911."

He has been connected with Yale in China movement for a number of years and has spent much time at Changsha in China. Mr. Leavens said in part: The revolution of 1911 began on Oct. 10, 1911, and although short-lived, spread rapidly, lasting about four months. The Chinese are naturally peace makers and the matter was soon settled when the Manchou government abdicated and since that time there has been more or less of a civil war. Up to 1900 conditions in China were not bad, but when the empire dweller was ruler there was a slight unrest and at the death of the emperor succeeded to power and finally the Manchou government was overthrown.

China has not yet adapted herself to modern government. Ideas although there is a tendency for a provincial or constitutional form of government. This form of government is inevitable but the major part of China is not ready for it. The country is where they are in touch with outside influences may be affected but the interior is not much changed. There have been several attempts to put in various political factions but without a whole lot of success. There has always been a large drain on the finances of the country to support her army owing to the high handed methods used by those in power. At present there is in China one recognized government and that is a Peking which controls about two-thirds of the northern portion of the country. Then there is another government at Canton which is not recognized and again many of the provinces are setting up governments for themselves. China, while not as large as the United States, is hard to control by one central government.

With regard to China's foreign relations she has pressed rapidly during the past few years. Her greatest strength was when she took sides with the allies against Germany. Although she was a comparatively negligible quantity in regard to actual fighting forces had she sided with Germany the allies would have lost a great source of supply for various war necessities. The public sentiment, however, in China, was

With Germany because of the extensive propaganda that had been spread throughout the nation. China greatly benefited by her stand in the war. It brought her before the world and secured a place for her at the peace conference and later the sympathy of the nations in regard to her Japanese relations. Up to the time of the world war China was spending about twice as much as her income and then borrowing to make up the deficits. These loans were small and the terms were hard, making the war her exports much better for her.

Not only have her financial conditions become better but her social conditions have improved. The educational facilities are better and the better class of Chinese are thirsting for more education. Government schools and many mission college projects are being promoted. Her government school system at one time suffered with everything else, but now there has been a great development of public opinion and things will soon be better. The students have been largely responsible for this development through their noted "student strike" in 1919. It was thought that certain interests in China had been sold out by unscrupulous people in power. The students organized a nation-wide strike which did much to call the attention of the nation and world to large to the conditions. A boycott on Japanese trade was instituted and magazines and newspapers, which had developed remarkably in the past ten years, took up the battle. And the publicity gained did much to mold public opinion.

China is becoming modernized slowly and the people are beginning to think for themselves as is being shown in their educational tendencies and moral code. Her resources are big and rich and with right leadership I think China will pull through and become one of the big republics of the world.

At the conclusion of Mr. Leavens' talk he was given a rising vote of appreciation. A supper and business meeting proceeded the lecture by Mr. Leavens. At the business meeting there was a very encouraging report—the literary committee regarding the course of lectures that is being conducted under the Brotherhood auspices. The membership was increased by four at the meeting. President Nathan A. Gibbs presided at the meeting.

SETTLEMENTS SEEMS IN SIGHT

IN EAST LYME WILL CASE

Judge George E. Hinman sat in the superior court here Monday morning to hear the case of Edward Barnard, executor against George S. Smith, et al., appeal from probate but it was continued to next week. The case is a contest over the will of the late Grace Barnard Smith of East Lyme, wife of George S. Smith, formerly of Norwich, involving an estate of about $10,000. The testatrix left property to some relatives in her will which Judge of Probate Austin I. Bush of East Lyme would not admit to probate on October 14, 1921, which was made the subject of the appeal.

When court came in shortly after 10 o'clock Monday morning, attorneys in the case asked for time to confer which was granted. The attorneys were in consultation some time at the expiration of which they reported to the judge that they had gone as far as possible toward a settlement and asked for a continuance to allow further efforts toward that end.
